THE HACR CII IN 5 EASY STEPS

The Hispanic Association on Corporate Responsibility (HACR) Corporate Inclusion Index (CII) takes a comprehensive measurement of the business practices and corporate strategies of participating companies around HACR's four pillars: Employment, Procurement, Philanthropy, and Governance.

Step 1: Learn About the Survey

There are no fees to participate in our survey. Reach out to the HACR research team (research@hacr.org) to learn more about the HACR CII and the rating system. We are willing to answer any questions you may have before you begin the survey.

Step 2: Begin the Survey*

Once a company agrees to take the survey, the HACR research team will send the primary point of contact an email containing a unique link to login to begin the survey via our secure, online platform.

Step 3: Complete the Survey*

The HACR CII survey is comprised of questions created by the HACR Research Institute from over 10+ years of research and conversations with Fortune 500 companies about their diversity and inclusion practices and the measures in place to evaluate their progress. The survey is open for three months.

Step 4: Schedule a Review Call

The purpose of the review call is to go over your submission data with the HACR research team. We will discuss any questions you may have, as well as help identify opportunities for improvement or highlight best practices on diversity and inclusion.

Step 5: Submit Survey Edits for a Final Rating

Participating companies will receive an individual summary assessment of its Hispanic diversity and inclusion efforts. The attained rating will indicate the company's performance on Hispanic inclusion best practices and outcome measurements. The rating documents are confidential to the company and designed to support discussion and strategy development with internal stakeholders. 5-star rated companies are publicly recognized by HACR in our annual CII report and HACR Annual Symposium conference.
